Although Bangkok Airways has been running flights around Thailand since 1968 (though it didn't get its present name until 1989), it has really increased its efforts to provide top level service in recent years. This company's commitment to quality can be seen by the number of awards it has received over the last few years. Some of the most impressive awards in the airline industry are those given by Skytrax, which uses independent customer polls, and Bangkok Airways has been recognized as Asia's Best Regional Airline several times on this basis. The EIA Monitoring Awards, which are based on airlines' environmental policies, have also recognized Bangkok Airlines with awards. Bangkok Airways is increasingly being acknowledged with such awards as it redoubles its efforts to meet the needs of travelers to Southeast Asia.

If you are a frequent flyer there are special benefits available to you such as the exclusive Blue Ribbon Club Lounges. What you'll find here are such things as meals, meeting rooms and even shower rooms in an attempt to make your long distance travel more pleasant. Of course, Bangkok Airways goes out of its way to make even its regular lounges uniquely comfortable and service oriented, but the Blue Ribbon Club lounges take this to a whole new level.
